A Ghost Most Elusive

What's a guy supposed to do when his mojo's a no-go? Mojo Mysteries, Book 2 Adrian Broussard has always considered his ability to talk to ghosts a mixed blessing. Until the night he and his man, Greg Woodhall, find the body of an elderly neighbor. The woman's ghost whispers murder, then refuses to speak to Adrian again. She does, however, try to communicate with Greg. An unexpected twist that leaves Adrian grappling with a green-eyed jealousy monster-and he has no idea how to vanquish it. What others say about this ebook:

Review 1:

This supernatural tale involving young lovers, Adrian and Greg, is book #2 in the series but is really the 3rd book about their adventures. They are connected to a previous series of books about Adrian's "fathers".

Due to his powerful "gift", Adrian's life had become all about keeping a tight rein on his emotions for fear of causing harm to others. While volunteering to help set up a haunted house in college he meets his soon to be partner the very lively Greg. This story, as well as the previous two, tells the continuing tale of Adrian's growing relationship with Greg and his struggles to deal with powers that don't allow his life to be normal.

Review 2:

This is actually the third book involving Adrian and Greg. The first is "Love, like ghost" where Adrian and Greg meet, it is part of Bay City mysteries. The second is "Demon Dog" the first Mojo Mysteries, then third this book. I really think you should read the first book to know what is going on. Adrian's fathers started a business investigating paranormal activity so Adrian is the professional ghost hunter, but Greg gets the ghost's attention so Adrian is a bit jealous. I do think this is brought up too much, enough already. I really like these characters, but I must admit they really just waited around for the ghost to tell them something. Sherlock Holmes they aren't. They rely on their paranormal abilities to win the day. I think it would be nice to have a combination of smarts and ghost-busting. Still a nice long read at 3262 pages..

For some reason I really love the cover on this one. Beware that this is book two. I did that deliberately - first book bored me after few pages, so I put it aside and never had a chance to come back. But I really do like Ally Blue's writing and even though I do not always connect with her characters I decided to give it a try. I was not feeling confused much, maybe I missed some character development, but so be it. Adrian can talk to the ghosts, he also I guess has some psychokinetic abilities, but I think connecting with the ghosts is his strongest ones. Looks like him and Greg met last book during the investigation, fell in love, etc, they are now together.

As blurb tells you they now stumbled upon a new ghost, only she mostly wants to talk to Greg who really does not have much of paranormal abilities. Adrian can feel her, but she would not communicate. That of course makes him a little jealous (even though he knows it is silly) and more protective of his boyfriend.

Well, ok the reason why I dived in the second book (besides me often starting series in the middle ;) ) was because I wanted a gay mystery with established couple, paranormal was an added bonus. I did not mind that the plot lead to some extra tension in their relationship, but what in the name?

This was not a mystery, because resolving a mystery by finally figuring out the name of the killer which ghost pronounced correctly does not freaking count in my mind as a mystery investigation. And all so called investigation was mostly them trying to make a ghost talk. Gah. Sorry. I mean there was some suspense at the end, but for me it just was not enough, not really.

I liked the men together - mostly and I liked that they talked about their issues instead of running away from each other and breaking up, but their talks felt, I do not know, a bit too didactic? Too long maybe? Do not get me wrong - I scowl at the idiots who are incommunicado and all the silly conflicts arise between them because of the absence of communication, but here communication felt a little off and I am not sure why.

Oh well.
